

Filyanina L.A., Bidenchuk T.N. Disintegration processes of the European Union. The article explores the causes and preconditions of disintegration processes in the European Union. The reasons for the UK's withdrawal from the European Union, as well as its relationship with the EU Member States after the Brexit procedure has been investigated. An unprecedented UK decision has become a shock to the whole world, but Scotland does not want to leave the union and will try to stay in it, not even within the United Kingdom.

After analyzing a lot of opinions on this, the possible consequences after the completion of the procedure were identified. Most notably, the output of the UK with the EU will be transferred to such industries as foreign direct investment and the impact of migration on the British labor market.

Also, the effect of the decision is analyzed not only for Britain itself, but also for continental Europe and timeliness for Ukraine. After the British Brexit procedure is completed, our state may feel some negative consequences. This is especially true of the issue of Russian aggression and the possible loss of financial support from the United Kingdom.

Keywords: Brexit, disintegration processes, European Union, European integration processes.