The introduction of automatic recording of administrative offenses (speeding) in the field of road safety can be an effective preventive measure to reduce the number of road accidents. Video recording allows you to: significantly reduce the number of accidents and people injured in them; to exclude a corruption component at fixing of offenses and registration of the corresponding administrative materials; to improve relations in the field of road safety and bring them closer to European standards.

Among the reasons that hinder the effective use of modern technologies in monitoring compliance with transport legislation is the ambiguous understanding of legal presumptions and legal liability of vehicle owners. It can be predicted that this may motivate dishonest drivers to resort to illegal actions in order to avoid liability.
